

Auberge Hollandaise: 'A home away from home'

To be honest – I did not know what to expect when an acquaintance suggested I book my one-night stay at Auberge Hollandaise during a business trip to Durban. My original accommodation booking at another establishment fell through and I was facing a predicament of note as the sun was already setting and I had just collected my rental car from the Durban International Airport.

Braving Durban's traffic en route to Auberge was not what I had in mind, nevertheless it was far less traumatic than the afternoon traffic of Gauteng. The directions Katina, the friendly and helpful Manager of Auberge Hollandaise, provided me with, were pinpoint accurate and I reached my destination without much sweat, despite the traffic.

Upon arrival at the guesthouse in Durban North, I was greeted heartily by Katina and the owner, Cheryl Burger, who assisted in getting me settled. The staff assisted me professionally and made me feel really welcome, carrying my luggage to my suite upstairs – much to my delight, as I was not looking forward to carrying my packed-to-the-limit suitcase up the stairs.

A luxurious 20 seater executive boardroom offers advanced technology in the form of WiFi connectivity, data projector, screen and plasma TV.

I was placed in one of the ten meticulously maintained luxury en-suite suites, of which five are facing the Indian Ocean and swimming pool. I was one of the lucky ones to be placed in a suite with an ocean view. My suite boasted a king-size extra length bed, dressed in 100% white cotton linen. My suite also featured an air-conditioner, offering a relaxing and peaceful environment after a long, hot day of travel.

Cheryl invited me to the pool deck, which overlooks the sparkling swimming pool, to have a glass of premium red wine while enjoying the last few drops of a magnificent African sunset. Upon inquiring, Cheryl was extremely helpful in providing me with advice on attractions in the area, as my important business meeting was only the following afternoon, which left enough time for exploring the area in the morning.

I was immediately allured by the unique, rather antiquated description of Durban's blue flag beaches close by that bear witness to the radiant beauty and gentle appeal of the clean golden sands and warm Indian Ocean waves. Cheryl also suggested stopping at the La Lucia and Beachwood Nature Reserve. The area has a variety of European, Eastern or local cuisine, from uShaka Marine World, the cultural realm, to a marvelous selection of restaurants and fast-food outlets at Kensington Square or at the Gateway Theatre of shopping.

According to Cheryl, Durban has an energetic night life with various options for the young and old — the IMAX, live concerts at the Barnyard Theatre, the Kizo Art Gallery (the largest gallery in KwaZulu-Natal) or for the more active, there are several appealing golf courses in close vicinity, including the Durban Country Club's and the Mount Edgecombe Estate's. Other attractions in the area include the La Lucia Shopping Mall (3km), a Virgin Active Gym (3km), the Gateway Shopping Centre (6km), Umhlanga Village (6km), the ABSA Rugby Stadium (4km) and now the new, magnificent Moses Mabhida Stadium with its lift, the Skycar/Adventure Walk, which gives you a great view over the whole of Durban and the Indian Ocean. The close proximity of the "Auberge" to this stadium makes this an ideal venue to stay at for the World Cup Soccer!

I went to bed in a much better state than I arrived in. It was only when I sat down that I saw the stylishly decorated, yet functional and comfortably large bathroom as well as the balcony overlooking the swimming pool. Auberge Hollandaise clearly gives attention to even the smaller details – like a decanter of 'sherry' and glasses on the bedside tables. There was definitely no time to utilise the television (with DStv), but I most definitely used the WiFi hotspots in the morning when I connected to download my e-mail.

“The Auberge is quite superb and certainly deserves its five stars. The welcome which I and my fellow tourists received last Thursday morning was so lovely especially after the long journey and the ongoing friendliness from everyone was so sincere - one can almost say, "It's lovely to be home".”

I woke up the next morning to the tranquil sound of birds in the background – definitely not the abrupt alarm of my cellphone that usually wakes me. I got dressed and went down to the sunny dining room for a generous and tantalising Continental or Full English breakfast. The service was prompt and friendly and the food was even better. The scrambled eggs, fried mushrooms and bacon was scrumptious and I also thoroughly enjoyed two cups of coffee while scanning through the latest daily newspaper and checking my e-mail.

One part of me wanted to just lounge on the alluring patio and wooden deck by the pool, which are surrounded by a well-kept subtropical garden with palms and bougainvilleas. But I knew the day was beckoning and there was no time for rest – I had to pack my bags and head out to the shops before my meeting.

The bed and breakfast rates are reflective of the very high standard of suites, facilities and service you will receive. The rate per suite per night, inclusive of Vat and The owners of Auberge Hollandaise, Breakfast, is R1000 (single, 1 adult) and R1500 (double, 2 adults). Auberge Hollandaise will not increase their 2009 rates until June 2010.

For discerning business travelers who want exclusive business meetings in KwaZulu-Natal, the Auberge Hollandaise offers a plush 24-seater executive boardroom to serve business or conference requirements. This boardroom facility is discreetly tucked away and is ideal for management meetings and strategy sessions. This well-appointed and comfortable facility offers advanced technology in the form of WiFi connectivity, data projector, screen and plasma TV. There are various small lounge areas and outdoor spaces for breakaway sessions. Auberge Hollandaise is thus an ideal venue for exclusive launches, workshops and presentations (rates on application).

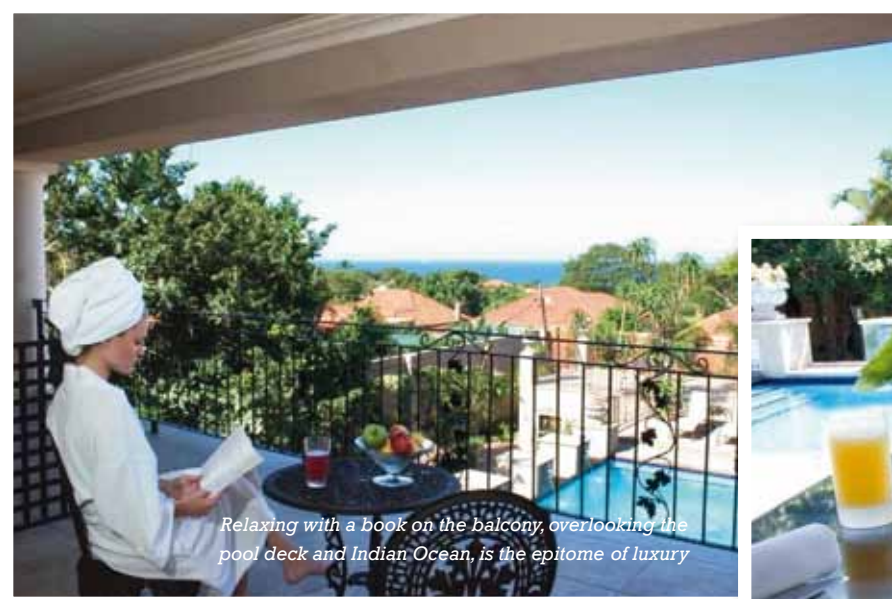

That is the one downside of being a business traveler – you are seeing and experiencing such wonderful things, yet you can't be the typical tourist and relax. But I am not complaining – because of business travel I had the privilege of experiencing Auberge Hollandaise – which was definitely something I will always remember. Upon checking out I talked to Cheryl again, who was curious to know how I enjoyed my stay and I could summarise it in one word: Fantastic!
